Flood threat up with another heavy snowfall

Will it be water, water, everywhere?

Up to 15 cm more snow in southern Saskatchewan could push city over its winter precipitation record

ROSS ROMANIUK
ross.romaniuk@metronews.ca

It's yet another pile of snow for Regina, and more bad news for the spring flood threat because of it.

Regina and much of southern Saskatchewan are expected to dig out on Friday from up to 10 or even 15 centimetres of more snow, to cap off a possibly record-breaking winter in which the city area has been walloped by more than double its normal precipitation.

The new snowfall, which was to begin Thursday evening, is poised to increase runoff when the spring thaw hits. And the city is preparing for whatever flooding comes with it.

"We are bringing in materials. We have some sandbags on hand," said Helene Henning-Hill, manager of sewer and drainage operations.

"If we need to make more sandbags, we're going to start deploying our employees to do that. But we're also bringing in other types of materials to utilize for dike preparation."

The latest snowfall, however, is what Henning-Hill calls "a distraction, more than anything," because it isn't changing how city crews prepare.

"We've got guys opening up catch basins and making sure those are available to receive water once it starts melting," she explained.

"It's more or less monitoring right now, and planning for once things start to move with the weather."

Record-setting snow

Environment Canada meteorologist Bill McMurtry noted Regina's record for snowfall at its airport — where snow is no longer measured — is 165.7 cm, set in the winter of 1955-56.

As of Tuesday, the city's four measuring stations had ranged from 95 to 167 cm of snow this winter.

Province backs mandatory asbestos list for public buildings

Private member's bill. Previous partial list was inadequate, stricken man's family said

The Saskatchewan government says it supports proposed legislation to make reporting of asbestos in public buildings mandatory.

Labour Minister Don Morgan said Thursday that a private member's bill will go to a committee that will consider what information would have to be provided on the registry, among other things.

"The bill would make it mandatory across a wide range of public entities and that's something we would want to work out at committee as to which entities we properly have jurisdiction over or should control," Morgan said.

The bill was introduced by the Opposition NDP last fall in honour of Howard Willems, a former building inspector who died of mesothelioma, a rare form of cancer that comes from inhaling asbestos fibres.

Do not disturb

- Asbestos is typically found in building materials such as insulation. It is not considered harmful if undisturbed, but renovations or construction work stirs up hazardous fibres that can be inhaled.

Willems had argued that people should know if they're going into buildings that have asbestos, especially if construction is being done.

Asbestos is typically found in building materials such as insulation. It is not considered harmful if undisturbed, but renovations or construction work stirs up hazardous fibres that can be inhaled.

The province said last fall that it would provide lists of more than 300 government buildings that contain asbestos.

But Willems' family and advocacy groups, including the Lung Association of Saskatchewan, said that didn't go far enough because it wasn't compulsory for other public buildings such as schools or hospitals to register.

Morgan said the legislation would make that mandatory.

Willems' stepson Jesse Todd is pleased with the strengthened bill.

"The voluntary registry was an incomplete list," said Todd, who is also chairman of the Saskatchewan Asbestos Disease Awareness Organization.

"We saw all kinds of variations of information that was submitted. We saw lists that were one-page letters that didn't provide very much information at all. And we also had some of the health regions provide information that was extremely detailed and right to the top of our list as far as what the gold standard was."

Willems died a week after the bill was tabled. Todd said the bill's passage would be a wonderful tribute.

Motorcycle insurance cap will hit other drivers: SGI

The province is trying to dampen the roar of angry motorcyclists by capping a hefty insurance hike, but it appears the move will hit other drivers in the wallet.

The proposed increase from Saskatchewan Government Insurance would have seen insurance for motorcycles go up by an average of 73 per cent. Instead, the province has asked SGI to amend its proposed rate hike so that it's capped at 15 per cent for motorcycles with annual rates greater than $1,000.

Motorcycles with annual rates of $1,000 or less will be subject to a dollar cap instead of a percentage cap, with a maximum increase of $150 a year.

"The motorcyclists were very, very vocal, saying it was too much, too soon, and can we look at options, and we don't disagree with their position that we should be looking at options," Donna Harpauer, minister responsible for SGI, said on Thursday.

SGI initially said the move was necessary because there is a wide gap — about $9 million — between what it takes in from motorcyclists in fees and what it pays out for their at-fault collisions.

Information on the company's website said the shortfall is essentially being subsidized by operators of other vehicles. Harpauer said other drivers have "always been subsidizing motorcyclists, so that will just continue."

Under the original proposal, 57 per cent of Saskatchewan vehicle owners would have seen rates rise an average of $28. The revised proposal means 63 per cent of Saskatchewan vehicle owners would see their rates go up an average of $35 per year.

The Saskatchewan Rate Review Panel is expected to come to a decision on SGI's proposal in June, with public consultations to be held before then. Any rate changes would not go into effect until Aug. 31.

Wanted: Loud, excited music fans for the Juno red carpet

Juno Awards. The search is on to fill 500 spots on the red carpet

ALYSSA MCDONALD

The red carpet is rolling out in Regina for the Juno Awards on April 21, and you could be part of the screaming mob of fans next to it.

This is your chance to get up close with your favourite musicians, take some photos and perhaps even snag an autograph or two.

Although details are still being worked out, the red carpet is a joint effort between CTV and CARAS, the non-profit organization behind the Junos.

In an email, CTV spokesperson Scott Henderson says they want people next to the red carpet who will go all out with posters, and the loud, excited screams that are sure to get the stars' attention.

"We look for the most enthusiastic music fans for each Juno Awards red carpet. We want people who are excited to meet and see the artists," said Henderson.

Meeting your favourite celebs in Regina is a rarity. For your chance, visit junoawards.ca/red-carpet and sign up to welcome Canada's finest artists to the Juno Awards in the Queen City.

People can sign up as individuals or as groups, and they have to name their favourite Canadian artist or band in the application email. An audience co-ordinator will let applicants know before April 12 if they have one of approximately 500 spots on the Juno Awards red carpet.

Fans wait for stars to arrive at the 2011 Juno Awards in Toronto. The awards are coming to the Queen City on April 21. CONTRIBUTED

Stranded. Carnival to fly passengers home after cruise cut short

Passengers from the Carnival Dream were heading to the airport Thursday instead of sailing home after an onboard generator problem halted their trip in the latest maintenance headache for the world's largest cruise line.

The Dream was in St. Maarten on the final stop of a Caribbean cruise when the crew announced they would not be sailing home to Port Canaveral, Fla., because of a mechanical issue with a diesel generator, passengers said.

Carnival Cruise Lines said the Dream had a "technical issue" with its backup emergency diesel generator that was discovered during a test on Wednesday. A company statement said the ship did not lose power.

Carnival said all systems were functioning normally Thursday but the company had decided to make flight arrangements for the passengers to return home by air.

Passengers strolling about the Dutch Caribbean town of Philipsburg said the power and water were out for 10 to 20 minutes, contradicting media reports of longer outages and unsanitary conditions.

"We have toilets. We have water. It's no different than a regular day at sea," said Tasha Larson, after disembarking with her boyfriend to spend the day in St. Maarten.

The Carnival Dream was on a seven-day cruise of the Caribbean with 3,646 passengers.

- The ship's March 16 voyage from Port Canaveral has been cancelled.
- An engine fire crippled sister-ship Carnival Triumph in February, leaving 4,200 stranded for five days without working toilets or power.

Triumph. Passengers from Texas file lawsuit

A U.S. federal lawsuit has been filed seeking damages for 17 people who were passengers last month on the crippled Carnival Triumph cruise ship.

The plaintiffs in the suit filed Thursday are all Texas residents who claim they were physically harmed and fearful for their lives. The ship cruises out of the Port of Galveston.

The suit is at least the fourth to be filed against Miami-based Carnival Cruise Lines. A prior one is seeking class-action status for more than 3,000 passengers aboard when an engine fire cut off all power and left them at sea for five days. Passengers say they endured food shortages, raw sewage running in corridors and tent cities for sleeping on deck.

The latest suit argues that Carnival overreaches in protecting itself against liability.

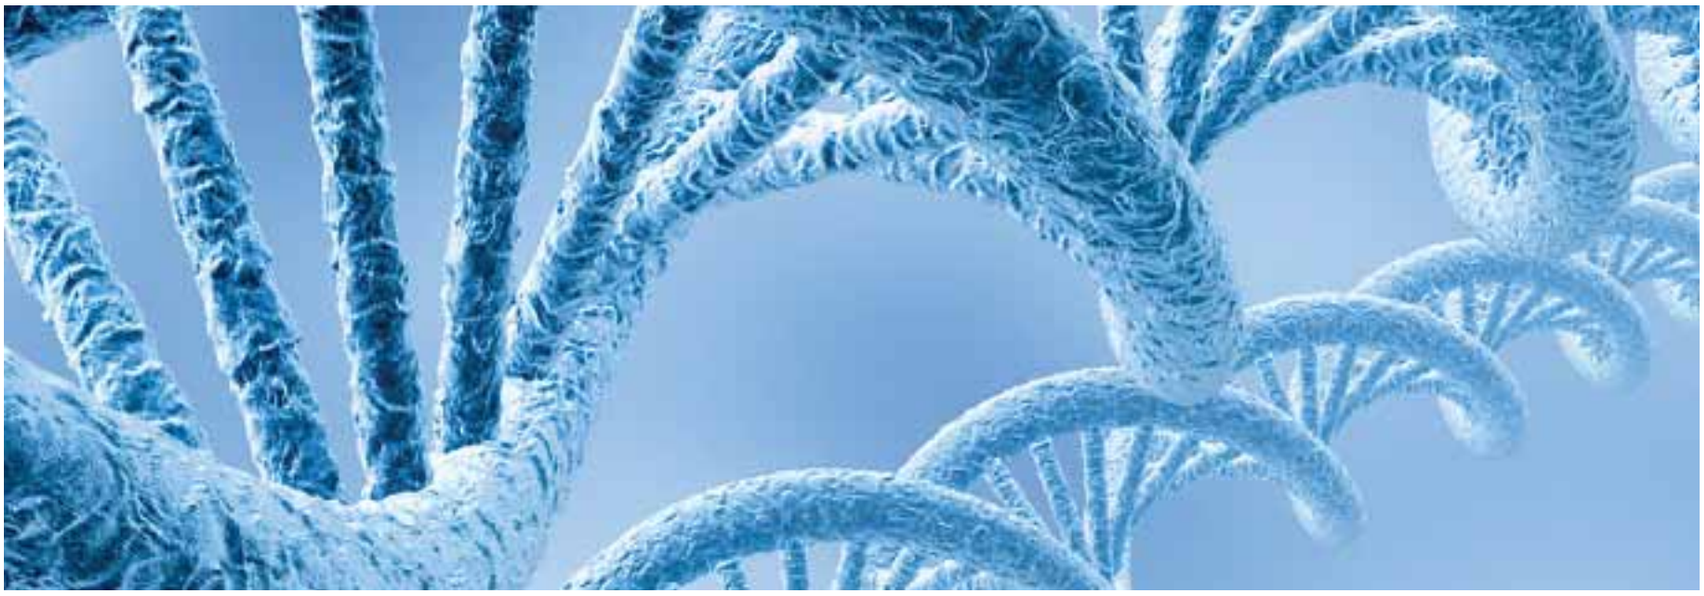
Sugar and spice and everything nice? More like deoxyribonucleic acid, or DNA. Just like you can make different kinds of cakes by altering the recipe slightly, we are all made of the same ingredients in unique amounts. In this final instalment in our three-part series on genealogy, we look at what our genetic make-up can tell us about our ancestry.



Go way back with Mitochondrial DNA

A researcher at the lab at Lakehead University's Paleo-DNA laboratory.
METRO/HANDOUT

Research. DNA serves as an important and interesting research tool in discovering where your ancestors were really from

SHANE GIBSON
Metro in Winnipeg

Digging through family records and talking to grandpa are good sources for starting a family tree. But to go a little further back — say 100,000 years — everything you want to know is already inside of you.

Well, it's in your mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA), to be more precise, and researchers at Lakehead University's Paleo-DNA laboratory in Thunder Bay, Ont., can use it to trace lineage way, way back.

"We deal with deep ancestry here," explained Stephen Fratpietro, the lab's technical manager.

"Basically your mitochondrial DNA can date back anywhere from 10,000 years ago to 120,000 years ago ... so you can find out things like if you came right from Africa or somewhere in Europe.

"We're talking about hundreds of generations."

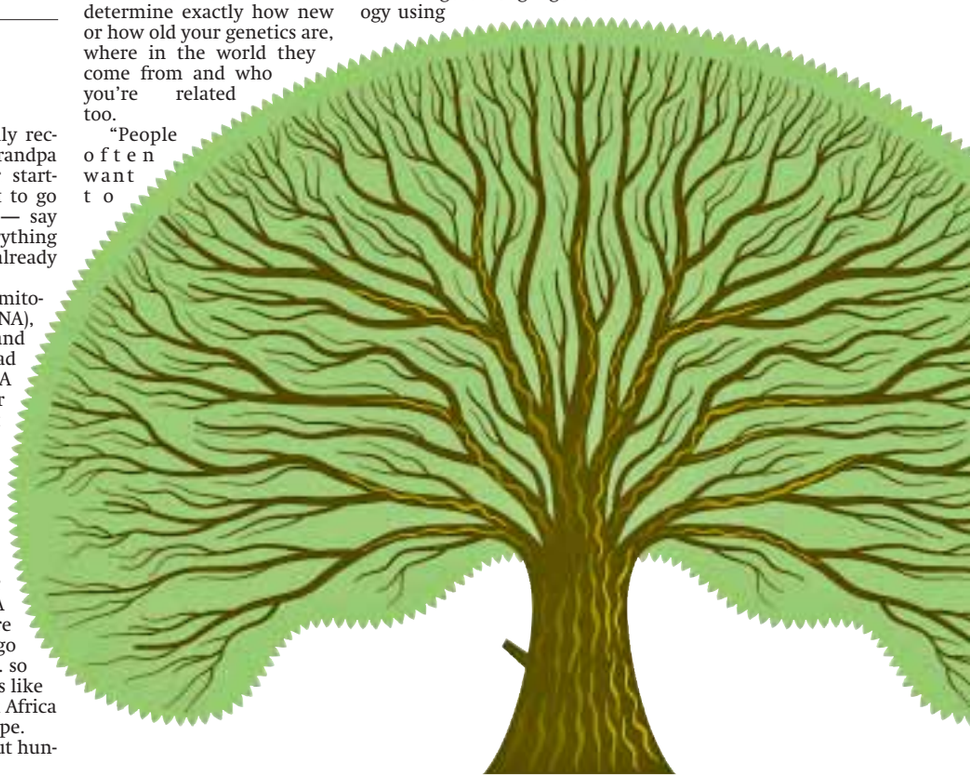
Because mtDNA is only passed down on the mother's side, Fratpietro explained it is perfect for DNA detectives like him to use for research.

By analyzing the mutations in mtDNA taken from a simple swab of the inside of the cheek, researchers can determine exactly how new or how old your genetics are, where in the world they come from and who you're related too.

"People often want to know where their genetics came from," said Fratpietro.

"If you're trying to figure out if you're related to a long lost relative, like a fifth cousin twice removed or something, you can try to establish a common maternal lineage through genealogy using DNA, and confirm whether you're actually related or not."

VISIT ANCIENTDNA.COM FOR MORE INFORMATION ABOUT LAKEHEAD UNIVERSITY'S PALEO-DNA LABORATORY AND ITS ANCESTRY TESTING.



Who can benefit from mtDNA?

The answer may surprise you.

- It's not just living people who can have mtDNA testing done. The Paleo-DNA laboratory at Lakehead University is often tasked with testing degraded archeological material dug up at ancient burial sites around the world.
- Stephen Fratpietro, the lab's technical manager, said because mtDNA is the most plentiful type of DNA, it is usually all that's left to answer many of the questions archeologists have about their discoveries.
- "The mitochondrial DNA can tell us whether the two individuals found in the same burial are related maternally or not ... and we kind of tell roughly where these people originated from in the world," he explained.

We tested three people to find out what their mtDNA would reveal. The results are in...

Subject 1: Female

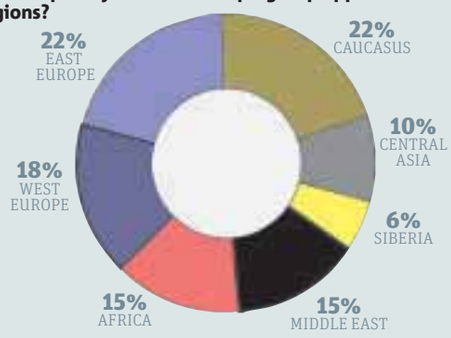
Why did you want to take part?

"I was adopted (OK, you've heard that before). I don't really know anything in terms of who created me or what my roots are — which clearly defines who I am today. Yes, I'm super curious! Culturally, this is also a factor. I'm half-Chinese and half-Caucasian (of some sort) and was adopted by Japanese people.

What the Paleo-DNA Laboratory discovered

Subject one belongs to haplogroup U3. Haplogroup U hypothetically first appeared about 55,000 to 60,000 years ago. Bryan Sykes, author of The Seven Daughters of Eve named the originator of this mitochondrial (mt) DNA haplogroup Ursula. Haplogroup U descended from Haplogroup R, which lived just after a second migration wave out of Africa, says the report. Haplogroup U has an extremely broad geographic distribution that ranges from Europe and North Africa to India and Central Asia due to numerous subsequent migrations. Although some members of haplogroup U migrated north into Scandinavia and others moved south into North Africa, most haplogroup U members stem from a group that moved northward out of the Near East, crossing the rugged Caucasus Mountains in southern Russia and moving on to the steppes of the Black Sea, then west to the present-day Baltic States and western Eurasia.

How frequently does the U haplogroup appear in different regions?



Subject 1's reaction

"Reading the results, I was very surprised to see that the majority of my DNA was not comprised as much from Asia as I initially thought. I've always thought I was a mix of just about everything but was surprised that it was mostly from eastern Europe and western Asia."

Subject 2: Female

Why did you want to take part?

"I was adopted when I was young and I know almost nothing about my biological ancestors. Knowing where I came from would give me a better understanding of who I am."

What the Paleo-DNA Laboratory discovered

Subject two belongs to haplogroup J and subject three belongs to J2. This means they share a maternal ancestor somewhere in the very distant past. Haplogroup J theoretically first appeared in the Near East about 50,000 years ago.

Sykes named the originator of this mitochondrial (mt) DNA haplogroup Jasmine. Haplogroup J derives from the haplogroup JT, which also gave rise to Haplogroup T. Haplogroup J is associated with the Neolithic expansion, the first use of agriculture, into Europe approximately 12,000 to 10,000 years ago.

Groups of hunter-gatherers and subsistence fishermen had been occupying much of Eurasia for tens of thousands of years when a group of modern humans living in the Fertile Crescent (present-day eastern Turkey and northern Syria) began domesticating the plants, nuts and seeds they had been foraging about 10,000 years ago, the report adds.

Haplogroup J's most recent common ancestor likely made their homeland around the Levant, a coastal region in what is now Lebanon. The highest frequency of the haplogroup is found in Arabia where around 25 per cent of the Bedouin and Yemeni belong to this haplogroup.

The J1 subclade accounts for almost 70 per cent of the total J population. The J1 subclade occurs throughout the European continent including Britain. The J2 subclade is 10,000 years older than subclade J1. The J2 subclade is more localized along the Mediterranean and especially the Balkan Peninsula. J2 population are actually quite diverse and range from the Mansi and other Ob River populations in Western Siberia (10 per cent of the J2 population) to populations of Northern Iran (five per cent of the J2 population), adds the report.

Subject 2's reaction

"Since I'm adopted, I really had no expectations about what would be discovered, but I certainly did not expect to have any common ancestry with another person taking part in this story! I found it incredible how far back they were able to look. It was surprising to me that I have Arabian ancestry. I'd definitely not have guessed that."

Subject 3's reaction

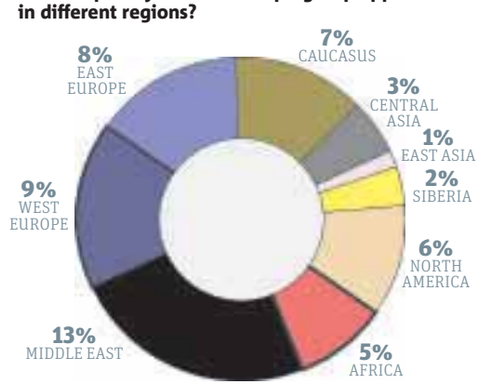
It's a bit of a surprise that those with my genetic makeup are found primarily in the Middle East, specifically in Arabia where around 25 per cent of the Bedouin and Yemeni population belong to my genetic group. Although Pakistan, where I was born, isn't that far off geographically speaking, it means somewhere down the line my ancestors migrated to South Asia. I wouldn't blame them. We got the best mangoes.

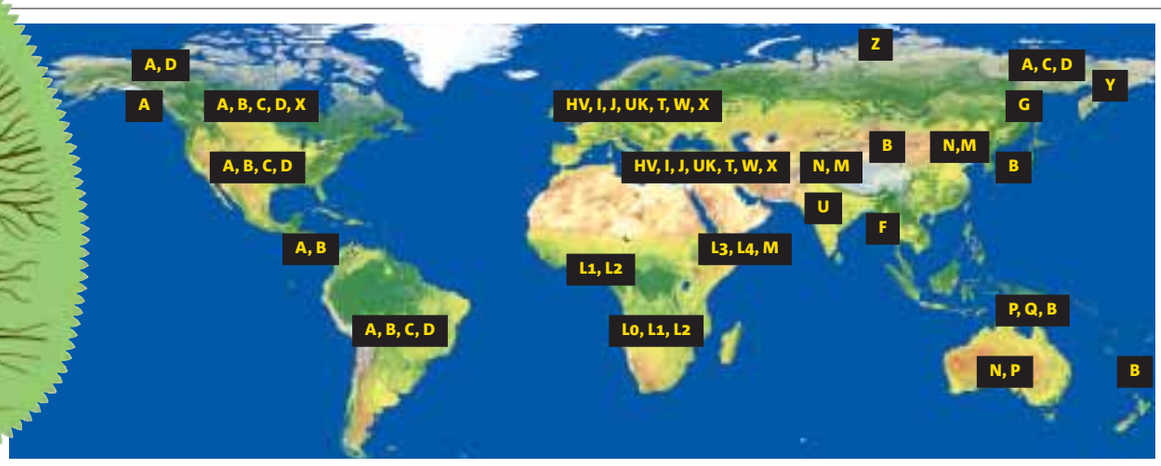
Subject 3: Male

Why did you want to take part?

"I was born in a part of the world where there were people coming in from various empires over various time periods. It's a jambalaya of Arabs, Indians, Iranians, Mongolians and a plethora of other people. I always wanted to figure out what mix I came from."

How frequently does the J haplogroup appear in different regions?





Where are they from? Distribution of major MtDNA haplogroups

What is a haplogroup?

- A haplogroup is a category that is used to group similar mtDNA profiles.
- These profiles have common mutations in their DNA that make them similar to each other but different to other haplogroups.
- Haplogroups are classified in capital letters and can have subgroups which are denoted with numbers. For example L1, L2, L3.

Fired zookeeper wants his job back

Calgary. Staffer recounts being bitten, dragged after gorillas escaped into kitchen

Fired for leaving a door unlatched that allowed gorillas to gain entrance to an off-limits kitchen area, a former keeper with the Calgary Zoo says he plans to appeal to get his job back.

Garth Irvine had been in his role at the zoo for nearly 25 years, but last Friday morning he encountered a situation unlike any before.

Irvine entered a staff kitchen area next to the gorilla enclosure to find three female apes inside. He claims he moved quickly to usher them out of the area, but in the process he startled a roughly 455-pound silverback named Kakinga.

"He charged ... he pinned me down, he gave me a small bite, he flipped me over and dragged me about six feet and then he ran away," Irvine told Metro in an exclusive interview.

Garth Irvine METRO FILE

Irvine then managed to radio for help. He estimates the situation was resolved in less than seven minutes.

But the zoo announced this week it was firing Irvine, who had also previously taken responsibility for leaving a knife inside the enclosure in 2009 that was then picked up by a gorilla. A photo of the primate holding the knife near a fellow enclosure mate garnered international headlines, but a report later cleared the zoo of any wrongdoing.

Then, in 2010, Irvine also took the blame for an incident that saw two giant snakes slither down an uncovered drain. The pair were missing for nearly 24 hours.

Still, Irvine told Metro Thursday that in an environment with so many moving parts, mishaps are bound to happen. "I would say absolutely everyone does make mistakes."

And that's why Irvine said he is planning to kick-start an appeal process that would first see the incident reviewed by the zoo's director of animal care, then the CEO, and finally the City of Calgary's parks department.

Irvine said he's also exploring other opportunities, including a possible career as a public speaker. He is scheduled to give a recap of some of his favourite memories of working with gorillas in a public-speaker series.

Pope Francis puts humility on display

First day. The new Pope eschews the ceremonial trappings of his predecessor

Pope Francis put his humility on display during his first day as pontiff on Thursday, stopping by his hotel to pick up his luggage and pay the bill himself in a decidedly different style of papacy than his tradition-minded predecessor, who tended to stay ensconced in the frescoed halls of the Vatican.

The break from Benedict XVI's pontificate was evident even in Francis's wardrobe choices: He kept the simple iron pectoral cross of his days as bishop and eschewed the red cape that Benedict wore when he was presented to the world for the first time in 2005 — choosing instead the simple white cassock of the papacy.

And in his first mass as pope, Francis showed how different he would be as a pastor, giving an off-the-cuff homily about the need to walk with God, build up His church and confess — at one point referring to children building sandcastles on the beach.

It was a far simpler message than the dense, three-page discourse Benedict delivered in Latin during his first mass as pope in 2005.

The difference in style was a sign of Francis's belief that the Catholic Church needs to be at one with the people it serves and not impose its message on a society that often doesn't want to hear it, Francis's authorized biographer, Sergio Rubin, said in an interview on Thursday.

Samsung turns up the heat with new iPhone challenger

Smartphone wars.
Galaxy S4 boasts larger screen and new ways to interact with device

Samsung Electronics is ratcheting up its rivalry with Apple with its new Galaxy S4 smartphone, which has a larger, sharper screen than its predecessor, the bestselling S III.

Samsung trumpeted the much-anticipated phone's arrival Thursday at an event in New York City accompanied by a live orchestra while an audience of thousands watched the theatrics unfold on a four-level stage.

Summoning up a touch of Broadway, Samsung employed 17 actors to demonstrate the new phone's features in a series of scripted vignettes.

The Galaxy S4, which crams a five-inch screen into a body slightly smaller than the S III's, will go sale in the U.S. sometime between the end of April and the end of June.

Samsung didn't say what the phone will cost. JK Shin, the executive in charge of Samsung's mobile communications division, promised the money would be well spent for a "life companion" that will "improve the way most people live every day."

Galaxy S4 features

While the S4 doesn't have eye tracking, as rumoured, it does have the following:

- A five-inch screen, an upgraded processor, and a battery 20 per cent larger than the S III's. Samsung didn't say if that translates into a longer battery life.
- Several new technologies to help users interact with the phone. For instance, the screen now senses fingers hovering just above it, and some applications react.
- Users can control some other applications by making gestures in the air above the phone. In the browser, you can command the screen to scroll up by swiping from top to bottom a few inches from the phone.
- The camera application can now use both the front and rear cameras simultaneously, inserting a small picture of the user even as she's capturing the scene in front of her.

Life, liberty and the law come into sharp focus as Toni provides compelling contemporary examples of how and why librarians are speaking up about addressing the critical problems of society. From the CBC Radio Canada Human Library partnership to the Canadian Library Association's participation in copyright reform in the digital age, there's a wave of library noisemaking hitting the airwaves. Toni helps us tune in and listen to that new library sound.

THE METRO LIST

1 Stompin' Tom memorial. The likes of Sylvia Tyson, Dave Bidini, Adrienne Clarkson and Ken Dryden gave a farewell to remember at his public memorial Wednesday at the Memorial Centre in Peterborough, Ont. — the city in which Connors received his Stompin' Tom moniker in 1967 during a King George Tavern gig. I was at the touching memorial, and it was one of those special patriotic nights I'll never forget.

2 New Pope = Twitter frenzy. Twitter went nuts Wednesday when white smoke billowed above the Vatican and Pope Francis was revealed. About 130 million tweets were sent after the announcement was made. Even the official papal twitter account, @pontifex, was reactivated that day, and the account has nearly two million followers.

3 Bachelor finale. It was the most dramatic Bachelor finale yet — or wait, it always is. Anyway, Sean was hot for teacher Lindsay but his heart was with Catherine, who accepted his proposal. The Bachelor has a spotty romantic track record, but this will work. It's the law of averages. Plus Sean and Catherine have decided to marry on TV. They can't let millions of viewers wearing rose-coloured glasses down.

4 Dare to Wear Gala. This charity fashion runway event by Toronto designers/couple Chris Tyrell and Jim Searle raises money in support of the Stephen Lewis Foundation in its fight against AIDS in Africa. It takes place March 22 and is the highlight of the Dare to Wear Love campaign and Toronto Fashion Week. Learn more at daretowearlove.com.

5 @Stats_Canada: The book. One of my fave parody Twitter accounts, @Stats_Canada, which tweets out awesome stats that aren't real stats about Canada but could be — e.g. "78% of Canadians are angry with someone, but will never show it" — is being adapted into a book. Stats Canada: Statire on a National Scale, by its anonymous creators, is out this Fall. Ninety-one percent of Canadians will buy it.

6 Small-town love/hate. The Twitter account @smalltwnprobs about life in a small town is a gem with tweets like, "You drove a tractor pretty much before you could walk," "You run into your parents while skipping class" and "People don't use turn signals cause you know where they're going." And it's becoming a big-city hit, with 100,000-plus followers.

7 Roll Up the Rim. I always love this Tim Hortons promo, and for this campaign and all future ones they do, I decided that instead of using the winning coffee and doughnuts for myself, I can do better. All coffee and doughnuts I win will go to the homeless. So far, I've won four. Winning has never felt better.

8 Real Hipsters of Vancouver. A casting call has gone out for a pilot episode for a reality show called Real Hipsters of Vancouver. Its creators envision showing that hipsters aren't just slackers wearing plaid and drinking bad beer, but are ambitious, creative people wearing plaid and drinking bad beer while following a dream.

9 Netflixed. A man shared his love for the video-streaming service by getting a Netflix tattoo in honour of it. When he tweeted his tat to them, the company responded by giving the guy a free year of service. I'm going to get a logo of every company I'm paying bills to tattooed on my skin , tweet them pictures of it and see how much I can save.

10 St. Patrick's Day. It's St. Paddy's Day this Sunday. Have a great one.

Observatory makes galactic find

ALMA

Stars found to be older than once thought

The world's most powerful telescope (pictured at left) unveiled this week has already made its first discovery: Galaxies as bright as 40 trillion suns. The stars, seen by the Atacama Large Millimeter/submillimeter Array (ALMA) in Chile, started some 12.7 billion years ago when the universe was only one billion years old.

Experts already know that starbursts — bright periods of fast star creation — were more common in the early universe than today. But these groundbreaking images taken at an altitude of 5,000 metres on the remote Chajnantor Plateau in the Chilean Andes reveal that stellar birth occurred a full billion years earlier in the universe than previously thought.

METRO

This montage combines data from ALMA with images from the NASA/ESA Hubble Space Telescope, for five distant galaxies. The ALMA images, represented in red, show the distant background galaxies, being distorted by the gravitational lens effect produced by the galaxies in the foreground, depicted in the Hubble data in blue. The background galaxies appear warped into rings of light known as Einstein rings, which encircle the foreground galaxies. ALMA

Bandcamp is an online store where fans can buy music directly from the artist, with the added bonus of allowing us to preview entire albums. It's a great model that has lured plenty of artists to set up shop there, including these Canadians:

Sean Nicolas Savage

This Montreal artist has a fairly robust selection of six albums to choose from, but none quite as dreamy as Flamingo. A light-as-a-feather collection of whispered ballads tailor-made for quiet mornings.

White Lung

The tags on White Lung's page may be a bit intimidating, but there's nothing to fear if you happen to be a fan of slithering guitars, pummelled drums and an irresistible frontwoman.

Bear Mountain

A sample-heavy dance party from Vancouver best enjoyed with a great pair of headphones and a sunny-day stroll.

Best and worst of St. Paddy's Day

Like any kid who grew up in a predominantly Irish home, I was dragged to Irish dance classes and forced to wear a green ribbon in my curly locks. Make no mistake, I'm Irish.

Although I've always been proud of my heritage, I've only grudgingly endured the annual celebratory displays of it, cringing at the way every year "Irish" becomes simultaneously synonymous with "adorable wee folk" and "public urination." Pot o' gold! Always after me Lucky Charms! Blah Blah blarney!

Because I love my family and I love my identity, in a way that has nothing to do with shamrock shakes and green beer or great throngs of people celebrating intoxication and cereal-box leprechauns. And I'm Irish enough to know that stupid stereotypes can Pog Mo Thoin!

According to legend, St. Patrick banished snakes from the rock and used a shamrock to teach the concept of the Holy Trinity. Maybe he can do something about the commercialization.

Anyway, Erin go braugh to ya.

Synopsis

For years Burt Wonderstone (Steve Carell) and Anton Marvelton (Steve Buscemi) ruled the Las Vegas strip with a magic show that made Siegfried & Roy look understated. But their dominance of Sin City's showrooms disappears when a David Blaine type, guerrilla street magician Steve Gray (Jim Carrey) starts a turf war in town. His daring act makes the glitter and glitz of their show look well past its sell-by date. To stay relevant Wonderstone and Marvelton stage their own daring stunt, which just may be their grand finale.

Where's the magic?

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

The Incredible Burt Wonderstone. A stellar cast and some funny moments aren't enough to keep an audience spellbound

Richard: Mark, I kept waiting for The Incredible Burt Wonderstone to pull a rabbit out of its hat and get really funny, and yet the rabbit never appeared. I fail to see how Jim Carrey, Steve Carrell, Steve Buscemi and Alan Arkin can share a marquee and have the movie fall so flat. Each has a potentially great comedic character and the premise should have been ripe for parody, but instead we get an only occasionally amusing movie. Was it a magical experience for you?

Mark: Actually, Richard, I smiled right through the movie, which I didn't expect because like all comedians, I hate magic. And I think the shots taken at both the overblown, wheezy Vegas magic productions, and the new, punk, Jackass-style magic were both very funny. The satire worked for me, the sentimentality less so. There are a lot of good showbiz jokes along the way, and I thought Jim Carrey was perfectly cast as the anything-for-a-thrill Chris Angel type. Richard, what did you think of Carrey?

RC: He was the highlight for me. No one plays controlled chaos like Carrey and I thought his increasingly self-aggrandizing behaviour was the best thing in the movie. It was Carrell that let me down. He's too likable an actor to pull off Wonderstone's egotistical, one-note womanizing act. The fake tan and mullet do some of the work, but it never feels real, and even less so when he falls into Woody Allen territory during his romantic redemption with a love interest 23 years younger. On top of that his gearshift down from narcissist to nice guy doesn't come off as anything but generic and predictable. Nothing magical about it.

MB: Absolutely right. And I felt the same way about Steve Buscemi. Olivia Wilde is just the affordable Megan Fox. But isn't it amazing how Alan Arkin can steal EVERY scene in EVERY movie he's in?

RC: I thought Buscemi and Wilde weren't really given enough to do to make any lasting impression. They play decent, nice people and in a movie like this, featuring raging egotists and insane illusionists, nice guys and gals do finish last. Arkin isn't given much to do either, although he does have a nice gag or two, but at least he remembered to pack his trademarked deadpan delivery in his bag of tricks.

MB: I didn't like the way the movie romanticized rootsy card tricks and sleight of hand as somehow more morally authentic than the glitzy Vegas magic. But I was still entertained enough to enjoy large parts of the movie, mostly in the first half.

The Call

Director. Brad Anderson

Stars. Halle Berry, Abigail Breslin, Michael Eklund

When Casey comes to in the trunk of a car, the frantic teen (played by the terrific Abigail Breslin) does what most would — she calls 9-1-1. The call is the beginning of an intense cat-and-mouse game as dispatcher Jordan (Berry) tries to track Casey's abductor and save the girl's life. The film builds in intensity, as every passing moment could be Casey's last. But, like many Hollywood thrillers, the film will lose its captive audience when it ventures from the acceptable to the ridiculously far-fetched. REGAN REID

No Arkin magic

"See, I don't give a damn anymore ... I'm going to die soon. It doesn't matter. I say anything that comes.

"The magician came over to me on the first day and said we have to work. I said get away from me. Don't get anywhere near me. I said for me to learn what I'm supposed to do in this movie would have taken me four years. I said it's not going to happen. Just keep away from me. I said they'll do it in CGI and that's enough."

Alan Arkin on why he refused to learn any magic tricks for his role as an elderly magician in the new film The Incredible Burt Wonderstone.

Bublé has much bigger fish to fry

Michael Bublé has sold millions of albums, but as he readies the release of his newest project, he's less concerned with his future sales, thanks to his wife's pregnancy.

"I'm nervous and excited, and truly I think it's given me great perspective," the singer said at the music video shoot for his new single, It's a Beautiful Day.

"I used to worry about how the single would do and how the record would sell. And the truth is, I love this record. I'm so proud of it. But, at the end of the day, if it sells 10 million or 10 copies, I've got bigger fish to fry," he continued. "I've got a wife and a kid I love very much."

Bublé married Argentine actress Luisana Lopilato in 2011. They announced in January they're expecting their first child.

Most of Bublé's albums have reached multi-platinum status, and his last three releases have hit number one on the Billboard 200 albums chart, including the triple platinum Christmas, the second bestselling album of 2011 behind Adele's 21.

His new album, To Be Loved, will be released April 23. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SOUND CHECK
Alan Cross
scene@metronews.ca

Iggy Pop, Sound City Players and Marine Bugs are highlighted in this week's Sound Check

Burn/Iggy and the Stooges

They were making punk rock a decade before anyone knew what to call it. The surviving Stooges return in April with just their fifth album in 46 years.

Mantra/Sound City Players

One of my favourite parts of Dave Grohl's Sound City documentary was watching him, Josh Homme and Trent Reznor write a song together in the studio. This is the final result.

Blues for Elle/Some little marine microbes

They've dubbed the sound "microbial bebop." It's surprisingly like modern jazz.

A tale of two Snoops: he'll always be a Dogg deep down, even as a Lion

Reincarnated. Hip hop star talks about why he put down the Dogg and responds to critics who say the move is just a gimmick

Snoop Lion won't fire back at critics who say his backing of the Rastafari movement is simply another gimmick from one of hip hop's savviest self-marketers. But Snoop Dogg will.

Reggae pioneer Bunny Wailer is the most notable skeptic. Wailer bestowed the Lion name on Snoop, but has since repeatedly questioned the 41-year-old rapper's intentions and commitment to Rasta ideology.

Asked to respond, Snoop's face registered a flash of malice followed by a devilish smile: "If I was Snoop Dogg: '(Expletive) Bunny Wailer.' But I'm Snoop Lion right now, so I'm chilling," he said.

Snoop Lion poses for a portrait at the Westlake Recording Studios in Los Angeles. JORDAN STRAUSS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

He is using the name to release a reggae- and dancehall-focused album, Reincarnated. Produced by Major Lazer — which includes DJ-producer Diplo — it features guests ranging from Chris Brown and Drake to Jamaica's Mr. Vegas and Mavado.

While promoting an accompanying documentary that tracks his trip to Jamaica and exploration of Rasta culture, Snoop makes it clear that his Lion persona is less a drastic transformation than part of ongoing personal growth.

With his film in limited release this week and his album due out April 23, the performer talked about his identity issues, his effort to stay positive and religion.

Evolution — Snoop-style

"To me, the Lion is the growth of Snoop Dogg — me growing into the next phase of my musical career."

Snoop Lion
On why he dropped the Dogg.

What does Snoop Lion mean to you? In the movie we see Bunny Wailer give you the name because he said he didn't want to call you a dog. That was his take on it.
I don't know what that take was because I'm going to always be Snoop Dogg. I can't throw that person away and get rid of him. To me, the Lion is the growth of Snoop Dogg — me growing into the next phase of my musical career, the next phase of my life.

In interviews since the film was made, Bunny has been skeptical of you. What's your take on his criticism?
I've done nothing but what I said I was going to do: go to Jamaica, make a great record, intertwine with some people, build on some relationships and come back and bring something back to the community.

What has been religion's place in your life up until now — and how does Rastafari fit in?
As a kid, I was pushed into the Baptist church, taught that way. As an adult, I was able to seek out information on my own to find out that the Muslim religion, Rastafari, Baptist, Christian — that they all the same. They all God-fearing people and love is love. ... It's more based on life and a way of life and liberty as opposed to religion. Because religion is so false, because it's so past tense and written by someone who is not here.

Paltrow struggling to get family on gluten-free diet

Gwyneth Paltrow is discovering that getting her family on a new low-carb, gluten-free diet isn't exactly a painless endeavor.

"Sometimes when my family is not eating pasta, bread or processed grains like white rice, we're left with that specific hunger that comes with avoiding carbs," she says in her new cookbook.

But the pain is worth it, she insists.

"Every single nutritionist, doctor and health-conscious person I have ever come across … seems to concur that (gluten) is tough on the system and many of us are at best intolerant of it and at worst allergic to it," she writes.

Miley's hard partying ways find her back on market?

The breakup rumours about Miley Cyrus and Liam Hemsworth are reaching a fever pitch, with the New York Post claiming that the couple's engagement is officially off.

"Miley and Liam are done — it's over," a source tells the newspaper.

"She likes to party really hard and can be pretty wild. It became a problem for him."

But Cyrus is reportedly still holding out hope of a reconciliation.

"They do fight, but she is crazy about Liam," another source says, adding that Cyrus "isn't ready to accept it might be over for good."

Anna Kendrick ends her relationship

Anna Kendrick has reportedly ended her four-year relationship with her Scott Pilgrim vs. the World director Edgar Wright, according to Us Weekly.

"She's single," a source says. "It was done a little while ago."

In her new life as a single gal, Kendrick has been ruminating about what life would be like on reality TV.

"If I were a contestant on The Bachelor, I'd just end up falling in love with the weird sound guy and making things uncomfortable for everyone," she joked recently on Twitter.

"To all the people joking about becoming sound guys, you should also know they put mics in actresses' cleavage and packs on (their) inner thighs. Think about it."

For a country not much larger than New Brunswick, Ireland sure has created an international reputation for itself. Whether music, literature, cuisine, bar culture and, of course, liquids, its fame is undeniable.

Though I'm only one quarter Irish, that part of me takes over as the hours grow closer to St. Patrick's Day. That means this weekend I'll be eating and drinking like a giant leprechaun. Irish stew is a personal favourite. And while a seductive pint of Guinness is a match made in heaven, you don't have to stick to the Emerald Isle when it comes to a beverage pairing.

Red wines like meat, with any medium-bodied version made from malbec making a tasty partner. On the white side, think sauvignon blanc or, if you want to get adventurous, a white grüner veltliner from Austria. A unique beer alternative with an Irish theme is Innis & Gunn Irish Whiskey Cask Stout (330 ml, $3.49 - $4.49). It's a Scottish brew aged in barrels previously filled with Irish Whiskey. Dark and chocolaty, it brings together the flavours of both cultures. Sláinte! PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Hearty taste of Ireland

Irish Lamb Stew. The perfect balance of chewy dumplings and rich morsels of lamb, this dish is a great way to celebrate St. Paddy's

Who can resist a hearty stew with lamb, potatoes, sweet peas, carrots, onions, celery and rosemary, simmered in Kilkenny Irish Cream Ale and topped with homemade dumplings?

Be sure to double the recipe for this hearty Irish favourite as you will definitely want to enjoy leftovers after the St. Patrick's Day celebrations.

1. Heat oil in Dutch oven on medium high heat. Then season lamb with salt and pepper. Add to Dutch oven and sear 3 mins. until brown on all sides. Add onions, carrots and celery. Sauté for 30 seconds. Add garlic and sauté for additional 30 seconds. Add beef stock and Kilkenny. Cover and simmer for 40 mins.

2. Add potatoes and simmer for another 20 minutes or until lamb is tender. When lamb is tender, add rosemary.

3. Meanwhile to make dumplings, in bowl place flour, baking powder and salt and mix together. Add milk and oil to dry ingredients. Mix until just combined. Using tablespoon, add to stew, 10 at a time. Cook for 10 to 12 minutes or until dumplings are cooked. Remove dumplings with a slotted spoon and place on pan lined with parchment paper.

4. Add peas to stew and mix in. Cook for 5 minutes. Serve stew in large crock. Top each portion with 2 to 3 dumplings and sprinkle with chopped parsley.

Chop Suey goes Irish

Ingredients

- Six 12-oz bottles Guinness
- 1-lb package wide egg noodles
- 1 1/2 lb 90 per cent lean ground beef
- 1 yellow onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 3 tbsp all-purpose flour
- 1 tbsp brown mustard
- 2 tbsp Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tsp dried thyme
- Salt and ground black pepper
- 3 scallions, chopped

"(Guinness) has a rich spectrum of uses," says Paul Hartley, author of Guinness: An Official Celebration of 250 Remarkable Years (Hamlyn, 2009). "It's this rounded velvety feel and it fuses with all the right things. Like oysters and blue cheese and chocolate. From time to time, I marinate chicken in Guinness and lime and grill it. It brings all that to life."

In keeping with the tradition of expanding Guinness' use, try it in Irish Chop Suey.

1. In stockpot over medium-high, bring Guinness to boil. Add egg noodles and cook until al dente according to package directions. Drain noodles, but reserve 3 cups of the liquid (add water if needed to have 3 cups). Set both aside.

2. Meanwhile, in deep skillet over medium-high, combine ground beef, onion and garlic. Sauté until browned and cooked through, about 10 mins. Add flour and stir to coat. Stir in mustard, Worcestershire sauce, thyme and reserved Guinness. Cook for 5 mins., or until sauce has thickened. Season with salt and black pepper. Stir in egg noodles and serve topped with scallions. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Penguins pile on Leafs in 3rd period

NHL. Toronto squanders late lead, surrenders three unanswered markers

Pascal Dupuis scored twice in the third period Wednesday as the Pittsburgh Penguins stormed back to beat the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1.

Marc-Andre Fleury made 28 saves for Pittsburgh (20-8-0), which defeated the Maple Leafs 5-4 in a dramatic shootout on the same ice five days earlier and has now won seven in a row.

On Thursday

Craig Adams added an empty-net goal with 10 seconds left in regulation for the Pens.

Tyler Bozak scored for Toronto (15-12-1), which has dropped four in a row. Ben Scrivens made 25 saves in taking the loss.

Tied 1-1 in the third, Chris Kunitz fed Dupuis in the slot and he wired a shot past Scrivens and into the top corner with 2:10 left in regulation.

Pittsburgh trailed 1-0 after two periods but tied it when Kunitz won a puck battle in the Toronto zone and found Sidney Crosby. The Penguins captain then fired a backhanded no-look pass to Dupuis, who beat a helpless Scrivens at 12:42.

Scrivens got the start ahead of James Reimer for Toronto, which had given up a combined 18 goals over its last four games (1-2-1) coming in.

The game was missing a level of creativity that could have been provided by injured Penguins superstar Evengi Malkin, who missed his third straight game with an undisclosed injury.

Osmond fourth after short program at worlds

Canadian Kaetlyn Osmond stepped onto the ice for what would be a memorable world championship debut.

The 17-year-old from Marystown, N.L., who has people in the sport raving about her rare ability to thoroughly dazzle a crowd, did just that Thursday. She finished fourth in the short program with her sassy mambo program — just a year after she was 10th at the world junior championships.

Osmond heads into Saturday's free skate within striking distance of a medal behind Olympic champion Kim Yu-Na of South Korea, who won the short program in her first major international appearance in two years. Defending world champion Carolina Kostner of Italy was second, while Japan's Kanako Murakami was third. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Diaz's musings leave St-Pierre incensed

UFC president Dana White stands between Georges St-Pierre, left, and Nick Diaz during a news conference on Thursday. GRAHAM HUGHES/THE CANADIAN PRESS

One day after missing a scheduled public workout ahead of UFC 158, Nick Diaz put on a show.

The often-sullen California welterweight showed off his chatty side at a news conference Thursday, wielding the microphone like a talk-show host. Diaz hogged the dais, throwing out comments and interjecting whether there was a question directed his way or not.

It ranged from the poignant to the bizarre.

"(In terms of) craziness, that was a 10 out of 10," UFC president Dana White said afterward.

The casually dressed Diaz held court, reeling off a long line of beefs including his picture on the promotional poster for the fight — evidence, he says, that the UFC likes to portray him as the bad guy.

"The picture of me is, like, from years ago," he complained. "Can I get one buttered-up Photoshop picture in a magazine or on a poster?"

At times, Diaz's stream-of-consciousness monologues seemed to bewilder champion Georges St-Pierre. Other times, a stone-faced GSP seemed antagonized and appalled.

"He's in a different place than he's ever been because he's really mad," White told reporters later.

Normally cool as a cucumber, St-Pierre is jalapeno-hot going into Saturday's main event.

"I've never seen Georges like this before a fight," White added. THE CANADIAN PRESS
